

Probers Prove Union Fund Used to Train a Horse

By HERBERT FOSTER
And JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON (UP) — West Coast Teamster Boss Frank W. Brewster testified today he hired his personal race horse trained by a $150-a-week union organizer.

Brewster told the Senate Labor Rackets committee the trainer, Mel Eisen, was hired to organize race track workers in the Los Angeles area.

The committee produced vouchers to show that the trainers son, Bobby Eisen, traveled on airlines at union expense. Brewster said he knew nothing about this.

Brewster, chairman of the 11-state Western Confederation of Teamsters, operates a string of race horses called the Needmore Stables. He has testified he fell in love with horses while driving a drag in his youth.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy told newsmen Brewster's testimony would lay the groundwork for the appearance — at a date not yet set — of Teamster President Dave Beck.

Brewster was indicted yesterday on contempt of Congress charges for refusing to answer the questions of Kennedy and Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) last January when they were acting as officials of another Senate group, the permanent investigating subcommittee.

Kennedy, the 31-year-old younger brother of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), was working before a family audience today. In the front row of spectators sat his father, millionaire Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to Britain, and Mrs. Kennedy.

Brewster testified that Eisen worked for him as a horse trainer about three years before he put him on the Teamsters payroll as an organizer eight to 11 months ago. He said Eisen left the union job three or four weeks ago.

The West Coast Teamster boss said he usually hired organizers from within the union, but he made Eisen an organizer because he had the experience of people around the race track as well as unusual intelligence.

Brewster said Eisen was supposed to organize workers on the starting gate and the barn areas. He added that the union was making a study to see whether it would be worth while to organize grooms.

Philippines in Tribute to Magsaysay

By JOHN RODERICK
MANILA (AP) — The charred body of Ramon Magsaysay, third president of the Philippine Republic, was returned to this grieving capital today.

The flag-draped coffin of the popular 49-year-old chief executive, who crashed to his death with 25 others on a Cebu Island mountainside early Sunday, was flown here in the presidential plane Pagasa.

Weeping crowds followed the bier as it was driven slowly through the sun-baked streets to Malacanang Palace. It will lie in state there for three days until early Friday.

Nearly half a million persons swarmed around the palace. As the nation mourned, a six-man investigating team dug into the likely causes of the fatal plane crash—including the possibility of sabotage.

Less emphasis was being placed on the sabotage angle than others because of the close security precautions that always accompanied the President, one of Asia's most determined foes of communism.

But Col. Pedro Q. Molina, acting air force chief, said sabotage could not be ruled out.

Air Force officials listed three other possible causes—pilot error, engine trouble and air pockets. Mustangs of the Philippine air force shepherded the white presidential funeral plane as it neared the capital.

Grief of grief welled up from a throng of some 50,000 when the plane landed. The crowd surged towards the craft as a 21-gun salute thundered over the field.

Ike Heads for Talk With British Leader

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

EN ROUTE WITH EISENHOWER President Eisenhower described as feeling much better after three days of warm sunshine, steamed toward Bermuda today for talks with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Traveling aboard the Navy guided missile cruiser Canberra, Eisenhower is to arrive at Hamilton, Bermuda, late tomorrow. His session with Macmillan will commence Thursday and end Sunday.

The President sailed from Norfolk, Va., last Thursday evening on a meandering six-day voyage to Bermuda in a move to shake a persistent cough, a head cold and an ear inflammation.

From Saturday morning until last night the Canberra cruised leisurely in the quiet, sunlit waters of Exuma Bay in the Bahama Islands area. Then the warship moved around the southern tip of Cat Island and headed to Bermuda, 850 miles northeast.

Just before the Canberra moved out of Exuma Bay last night the President told the crew he was having a most enjoyable trip.

His informal remarks from an impromptu stage on the floodlit forecastle deck came at the end of a happy hour program of entertainment put on for him by the crew.

Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, White House physician aboard the Canberra, reported to newsmen on escorting destroyers that Eisenhower was doing fine in building up his health.

Snyder said the President's ear ailment has cleared up and that he now is coughing only occasionally. A head cold from which he had suffered has about disappeared.

Eisenhower smiled broadly and waved a greeting to crew members at the rails of the destroyers Wood and Barton yesterday afternoon as he circled the ships in a 35-foot motor launch.

The President, wearing a bright red cap and a tan windbreaker, was returning to the Canberra after trolling for fish off nearby Little San Salvador Island. Eisenhower was out about two hours but had no luck. His naval aide, Capt. E. P. Aurand, landed a big barracuda.

Eisenhower continued to receive reports from Secretary of State Dulles in Washington on the Middle East situation.

Americans Travel But Very Few Go by Air

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Things of common sense might never know if he didn't open his mail.

That the American tourist industry is the greatest on earth. Yet a recent survey showed 75 per cent of U. S. adults never have made a journey by air, 50 per cent haven't made a trip of more than 100 miles by bus, and 30 per cent have never traveled by train.

That this country may not be going to the bow-wow — now has one dog for every seven persons.

That the White House appears on only one U. S. bill — the double sawbuck.

That there is what happens to you when you kiss a pretty girl.

Ford Plant Blast Kills One, Leaves 25 Badly Hurt

DETROIT (AP) — An explosion at the giant Rouge plant at the Ford Motor Co. fatally injured one workman and sent 25 to hospitals with burns, cuts and broken bones last night.

Five were listed as critically hurt.

John Goodwin, 56-year-old Detroit inspector, died of injuries at 8:45 a. m. today. His post was near the explosion scene.

The blast occurred in a paint spray booth where new automobile frames were moved through on a conveyor belt for painting. The cause was not determined.

The department went back in operation with the start of the midnight shift, about 5 1/2 hours after the explosion. The painting operation, however, was idle because of the damage.

About 2,000 workers were in the building when the explosion ripped out 500 feet of glass and brick wall, threw workmen off their feet, and set off a paint-fueled fire that was extinguished quickly.

The plant, on the outskirts of Detroit is the world's largest industrial installation. It is a collection of buildings on a 2,000-acre site.

Carmen Sarotte, a 37-year-old general foreman, was one of the workmen standing outside the building when the blast sent flames shooting out of the mouth of the oven where the flames entered.

Dazed and burning men came running toward us along the platform where the frames are loaded," he said. We grabbed them, tore their burning clothes from them and then beat the fire out with our hands. We handled about five."

One man, his clothes flaming, stumbled over a guard rail and started running said Henry J. Hill, a 39-year-old welder who was standing close by.

He tripped the running man and threw him to the ground.

I grabbed a coat off a rack, wrapped him in it and beat him with my hands, he said.

About a quarter of the building was damaged, a Ford spokesman said. He gave no immediate estimate of the damage.

Dr. Harris to

General Decline

NEW YORK (AP) — Oils and steels took losses in a generally lower stock market early this afternoon. The decline was general but trading was quiet.

The Middle East situation remained a question mark to cause hesitation, while the lower steel output and softening copper prices were further dampeners on enthusiasm, brokers said.

Data on Tax Referendum Is Received

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Copies of papers which Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett must approve in advance of a proposed referendum on the state sales tax increase were received by him yesterday.

Hope publisher Alex. Washburn sent the documents.

Washburn has said he will lead action for referral of the tax boost act which was passed by the 61st General Assembly recently.

The act raised the sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent.

Petitions for referral have to be filed within 90 days after March 14, when the Legislature adjourned. If they are signed by qualified voters equal to 6 per cent of the number who cast votes in the last gubernatorial election, the measure can be submitted for a popular vote at the November 1958 general election.

If 15 per cent sign, a special election may be held and Washburn has indicated he seeks this type of balloting.

Bennett said it might be several days before he ruled on validity of Washburn's documents. They included a form of petition, a suggested ballot title and a popular name.

Experimental Drug Used on Infant

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Doctors watched a 6-month-old boy today to see if an experimental drug can relieve his breathing difficulty and save his life.

The new drug — panerentec formase — was flown here last night from a drug firm in Philadelphia for James Hunter, who underwent heart surgery a week ago.

Complications developed, and mucous and other secretions clogged the bronchial passage.

Doctors at Cardinal Glennon Memorial Hospital said it will be a day or so before the drug's effectiveness can be determined.

Minister Kills Robber Who Killed Officer

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind. (AP) — A fleeing bank robber killed a veteran state police officer at a roadblock yesterday and then died in a gun duel with the officer's friend, a Methodist minister.

Sgt. Marvin E. Walts, 49, a veteran of 19 years' state police service was killed by a bullet that entered his forehead while William Hassett, 25, of Louisville, was dropped by two shotgun charges fired by the minister.

The minister, Robert J. Gingery, 37, minister of Trinity Methodist Church in nearby New Albany, gave this account of the incident although he was in a near state of shock.

He and Walts were returning from looking at fishing sites in the area of Sellersburg, a community north of here, when state police radio broadcasted that the Sellersburg State Bank had been robbed of $1,655 by a gunman.

Although it was his day off, Walts was directed to a roadblock four miles north of here and Gingery accompanied him.

Hassett, stopped by Walts, got out of his 1947 car and said: I hope this thing won't take too long.

The trooper searched Hassett and found nothing significant but when he looked in the car, he spotted a brown leather jacket, a key item in the description of the bank robbery.

I've got a subject here that answers the description," Walts radioed his post. Give me that description again.

Gingery said that Walts then returned to the bandit's car with he suspect.

I could see Walts bending down as if looking under the front seat," said Gingery. Then I saw the man jerking around in the seat as if he was after something. I could see them scuffling and I heard some shots. I didn't see Walts after the shooting but the other man got out of the car and ran around the other side.

Then I saw him crossing the road toward me with a gun.

Gingery said he then picked up the pump-action riot gun from the police car seat and leveled it out the side window.

He saw it and ducked," Gingery said. He ran around behind the car. It's a good thing he did. I tried the trigger, but nothing happened. Then I thought of the safety.

R. V. Herndon recalls many details of the old train wreck pictures carried in yesterday's issue... for instance the bottom picture showed a pole sticking up through one of the overturned cars... Mr. Herndon says when he arrived (he was called with the ambulance) a passenger without a coat was walking around in a dazed condition... the man told Mr. Herndon shortly after the first jolt he felt something scrape his back and his coat was yanked off... investigating Mr. Herndon discovered the "pole" sticking out of the car was actually a steel rail and that part of the man's coat was still on top of the rail... the passenger wasn't hurt, just shocked.

No Secret Pledge in Mid-East Yet

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israelis expressed surprise at what President Nasser is doing. Any reason for the surprise? Not much, unless they can produce secret pledges by the United States or the United Nations.

They've produced none yet. Secretary of State Dulles reportedly told senators yesterday there were none. All they got, it seems, were vague hopes that things would work out all right.

Take it step by step.

When Israel's war with her Arab neighbors ended in 1949, there was an armistice agreement which gave Egypt control of the Gaza Strip. Egyptians later used Gaza for guerrilla raids on Israel.

Further, Egypt took over in 1951 the Tiran Islands at the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba, fortified them, and blockaded Israeli shipping although the islands belong to Saudi Arabia.

When the Israelis invaded Egypt last October they seized Gaza and drove the Egyptians out of the Aqaba area. Thereafter the United States and the U. N. pressed Israel to pull her troops out of both places.

Israel got from President Eisenhower, Dulles, Henry Cabot Lodge, American delegate to the U. N., and U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld, expressions of hope that once Israel vice president who was sworn in as president yesterday, headed waiting officials and diplomats.

Arriving a Malacanang, the coffin was born by khaki-clad soldiers into the great lobby. The beautiful widow, Mrs. Luz Banzon Magasaysay, who last saw her husband alive Saturday, met the sealed coffin at the entrance to the mausoleum and pray ceremonial hall.

Weeping softly, she and her three children followed the bier to the center of the room, where it was installed in state before an altar.

Kansas City Site of Benefit Play

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The Blue Hills Club course here has been selected for the third annual Women's Heart of America $5,000 tournament Aug. 23-25.

Cliff Waters, tournament director, said he expected top flight women pros to come here for the three-day event after commencing in the women's division of the Tam O'Shanter.

Probably blockaded again in the gulf. So long as U. N. troops remain on the armistice line, Egypt is unlikely to resume its raids on Israel.

But — Israel hasn't let the U. N. troops take up positions on the Israeli side of the armistice line, as they have on the Egyptian side. This may give Nasser an excuse to demand the withdrawal of U. N. troops altogether.

Legislature May Be Called Next Week

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus said today he will call a special session of the Legislature next Monday or Tuesday for the joint Budget Committee and the Highway Commission can reach a firm agreement Thursday.

The committee and the commission will meet at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in an effort to resolve differences over an amendment to the appropriation bill. The Senate and House could not agree on the amendment and adjourned the regular session last Thursday without taking final action.

In discussing the meeting, Faubus said, "If their agreement is basic, then I will call the special session next Monday or Tuesday — if enough of the legislators can be present."

The Highway Commission had planned to discuss the situation at a meeting today, but cancelled the session after arrangements were made for the Thursday conference.

The Senate objected to a House amendment which would require the Highway Department to pay minimum salaries to certain classes of lower bracket workers and provide embezzlement payments for an employee required to travel outside his home county.

The minimum wages are near present prevailing wages and the controversy apparently developed over the travel pay provision.

Sen. Tom Allen of Brinkley, chairman of the Senate budget committee, and other opponents of the travel pay provision said that it would cost the department about a million dollars.

School Budget Is $44 Million

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A public school budget of $44,394,050 has been approved by the state Board of Education.

The 1957-58 figure is $4,500,000 higher than the budget of the current school year, and was made possible by a one per cent increase in the state sales tax.

About 14 million dollars in additional money was allotted to schools by the Legislature. It was stipulated that 90 per cent of the extra funds should be used for teachers' salaries.

Education Commissioner Arch Ford corrected earlier reports that Arkansas teachers could expect an average salary increase of 912 in the new school year. He said it would be about $650.

Woman May Have Jumped Into River

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A woman in black was seen standing on the railing of the Broadway Bridge across the Arkansas River here last night, and police today feared she had jumped.

David Leaster, 18, and J. W. Stone, 16 (both of North Little Rock), told police that they saw the woman standing on the railing as they drove across the bridge about 10:15 p.m. They said they could not stop because of the traffic. When they returned to the spot the woman had vanished.

A black purse was found near the railing in which the woman had been standing.

Police said the husband of a woman identified by papers in the purse said his wife had left their Little Rock apartment last night for fresh air and had not returned. He said she had been despondent.

A taxicab driver told officer he had driven the woman from the apartment building to the downtown area. He said as they crossed the Main Street Bridge, which parallels the Broadway structure, she had sought to leave the cab.

Officers quoted the cab driver as saying that he returned to Little Rock across the Broadway Bridge and let the woman out at the foot of the span.

A Fire Department spokesman said they are awaiting further developments before deciding whether to drag the river.

New Statistics on Sweater Business
By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) The sweater business which always comes up with some interesting figures of one sort or another has some new statistics today on production and sales in this year's intensifying battle of the fibers. Leaders report a growing market for men's sweaters—and an increasingly competitive fight for it as well as for the industry's old standby, filling women's needs in sweaters. The wool industry predicts its knitwear sales this year will top those of any year in more than a decade. In the man-made fiber field the acrylic, or warmth fibers, will see a scramble for markets between at least seven varieties, a couple of them newcomers to the fray. Revival of interest in men's sweaters—there has never been any drop in interest in women's sweaters—started in 1954. In 1950 production came to 1,620,000 dozens. By 1953 this had dropped to 1,270,000 dozens. But in 1954 sales started up again and last year output neared the two million dozen mark. This year, the sweater makers expect to go over that figure. For one thing they are coming out with some new types of yarn they think will do the trick. The Woolknit Associates, Inc., base much of their hopes on the development of cold water soap which fits at one obstacle in the past to expanding woolknit garment sales. For women's wear the makers in the fashion field stress the old standbys—lam's wool sweaters and cashmeres, and are touting mohair, knitted like spun sugar, and a 50-50 mohair and wool honeycomb stitch. The industry spokesman says that in the men's field high fashion influences two thirds of sales of wool sweaters and cardigans. At lower priced levels the man made fibers have been gaining much of the market. Du Pont, which produces Orlon acrylic fiber, says its entry accounted for 25 per cent of total fiber usage in men's sweaters in 1954, and 47 per cent last year. Du Pont claims 70 per cent of the market for women's sweaters.

Tree Production Major Farm Crop
WASHINGTON (AP) The production of trees is fast becoming a major farm activity. Sixteen years ago, forestry products industries started a move to get farmers in forestry areas to convert some of their land to trees as an income crop. Since then farmers have put nearly 42 million acres in 44 states into the growing of timber. Florida leads with slightly more than four million acres. Other leading states are Georgia, Oregon, Alabama, Texas, Arkansas and Washington.

The Paris Metro (the French subway) has some de luxe cars which cost extra fare. The cars are sprayed with perfume.

Cost Girl Dates

Dear Dorothy Dix: My roommate at college is a wonderful girl, with just one outstanding fault. She's a marvelous put the finishing touches on anything she makes. She leaves off buttons, zippers, hooks and eyes, and is usually held together by safety pins. Her clothes would be knockouts if properly finished.

system, listing the number of each farm and out-of-town home, its exact location, the fastest route there and available sources of water for firefighting. The card also will list the number and types of buildings at each location. Numbered signs are being put up at each farm. In the future, when calling for help all a farm resident will have to do is give his number—and firemen will speed on their way with all the information they need to handle the situation.

Mrs. Sykora enlisted the aid of Capt. William C. Buck of the Stillwater Fire Department in developing her plan. County groups added their support.

ished. How can I help her overcome this fault? PHYLIS
Dear Phyllis: Many creative people have this fault. Good cooks hate to clean up after a baking session, gardeners hate to weed and dressmakers shy at Perhaps they have a feeling that superb talent is wasted on such minor details, perhaps they're a bit tired of a project when it nears the end and lack the necessary spark of energy to finish the job. I assume you've used all arguments such as appealing to a sense of neatness, and the fact that nothing is less charming than might threaten that there will be no double dating with you, nor will you arrange another date unless she can appear completely and tidily clothed at all points.

Offer to exchange jobs; you'll do her finishing if she'll do something for you. Or, make it a cooperative job. Nothing seems tedious if two people work at it.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I like a boy who seems to have a high regard for me as a friend, but nothing more. He has a girl friend but they don't go steady at least, as far as I know. Would it be proper for me to try and get him and if so, how do I go about it? R. R. ear R. R. There is certainly nothing improper in being friendly and pleasant to a boy, and that would be the best way to encourage his interest. No wisecracks, no sarcasm, no sulks! If it kills you, wear a smile about everything!

Even if you feel positively green about the other girl, don't show your jealousy. A high-school junior is apt to do a lot of filling before he settles on one girl.

Dear Dorothy Dix: We have two adopted children. When people ask us if we have children, should we say they are adopted? BILL

Dear Bill: No. Simply say you have two youngsters, and don't go into details. The children are yours, and the less you dwell on the fact that they were not actually born to you, the better.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I was going with a boy from school who went into the army. We corresponded for a while, then suddenly he stopped writing. I hadn't heard from him since June, 1956; then I received a card at Christmas. I wrote to him promptly after that but haven't heard a word since. I love him desperately and don't go out with anyone else. SANDRA
Dear Sandra: Unless you relish the picture of yourself sitting home forever buoyed up by a Christmas card each year, you'd better start accepting some of those invitations.

The Rare Adventure

by BERNARD FERGUSON

Copr. 1954 by Bernard Edward Ferguson. Distributed by MEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Arriving in Sek-hou to seek traces of a famous Scottish relative who turned pirate, Allan Larg and his wife Mollie, are faced with mystery. Captain Billon, the French Commander, tells them they must leave and under no circumstances are they to talk politics.

CHAPTER VIII

At 4 o'clock Allan stroled down to the cobbler's shop to collect his shoes. The young Jew was still sitting on his counter and working away industriously; but beside him was a brand-new pair of sueded, toward which he nodded with a smile as Allan arrived. Allan picked them up tentatively; they were beautifully stitched, stout of sole and supple about the insteps and uppers. The young man made signs that he should try them on, so Allan put on the sueded, and walked up and down the street, seven or eight paces to the turn. They were as comfortable as a mortal man could wish, and Allan congratulated himself and complimented their maker. In dumb show he asked how much they were to cost him; the cobbler replied in Arabic a sum less than the equivalent of two pounds; and Allan offered him a cigarette to seal the bargain. As he leant forward to light it, and his lighter flared up, he became aware that in the dark recesses of the shop there was another man.

"Would you like an English cigarette?" he asked in Arabic. A voice answered him in the same language, but with more fluency and assurance than the cobbler's; and Allan was so delighted at the chance of airing his Arabic that he sought to continue the conversation. They had exchanged two or three sentences when it struck Allan that the hand which had stretched out to take the cigarette from his pocket from out of the darkness was long-fingered, soft and manured. The conversation did not burgeon, however, even though Allan sat on the counter to change back into his old shoes again; and he bade the cobbler good night and left the shop with his curiosity unsatisfied. He had not gone 50 yards before it was aroused by something else.

He had walked from the hotel to the shop through nearly empty streets. But now he perceived that the streets had filled up with little knots of people.

Some were Jews, going home to their houses before the sunset brought the Sabbath; but many were Berbers, talking in groups either in the street or at cafe tables. He had the impression that all were looking at him, in the sort of way he remembered Europeans in Jerusalem looking at him when something was afoot.

He went up to Mollie's room when he got back to the hotel, and found her complaining of a slight headache.

He opened the shutter so as to admit the air, which the cool hand of evening was freshening at last, and went downstairs to sit, and smoke in the garden, and watch the changing light.

"Good evening, Colonel Larg," said Fernana's voice, breaking in on his thoughts. "You were in town?"

"I was." "It was quite quiet." "Perfectly." So the fellow was going to talk politics.

"But they are saying that there was trouble in Nail today." "It seems to me that everybody is very fond of the word 'trouble' in this country."

Fernana threw back his head and laughed. "I was wondering," said Fernana, putting a finger at the corner of his mouth, and looking at Allan, "would you care to meet some of the island notables? If you and Madame Larg are going to spend some time here, you will want to penetrate deeper into the island life than the tourists who come here in the season. Colonel Larg; if there is anybody—any particular person, or group of yourself."

"It's very kind of you," said Allan firmly. "I think Captain Billon will probably be able to arrange anything of that sort." Fernana spoke again. His voice was subtle without being sly, as if he had read the thought in Allan's mind, and was now confident that each of them could hear henceforward the undertones in what they said.

"Captain Billon can introduce you to a great many interesting people. But if at any time you would care to meet some interesting people whom Captain Billon does not know—" and he left the sentence in the air, more of his undertaking to Billon, but still felt justified in saying noncommittally:

"I think Captain Billon will be a very good host. But I will remember, certainly, what you have said."

After dinner, when Allan and Mollie were drinking coffee in the garden, Billon arrived. He looked tired.

"You have heard about Nail?" "I heard something," said Allan, and added quickly with a smile, "but tell him I haven't been talking politics!"

"Assuredly not!" said Billon, grave again. "There has been some shooting. One of my colleagues is wounded, but several Nails have been killed, and some shops, French shops, have been looted."

"I'm so sorry," said Mollie, with genuine sympathy. "Perhaps it's just as well we didn't go this morning."

It is, as things have turned out. And my orders now are to keep you here until things quite down at Nail, or until the next airplane comes in."

Woman Wins New Nose on a TV Show

LONDON (AP)—Mrs. Terry Phillips, who won the price of a new nose on a TV show, said today she has decided to keep her old nose and give the money to charity. Her small daughter likes her the way she is.

Mrs. Phillips, 40, has one of the longest beaks this side of Jimmy Durante. I get chills on it when I take a hot drink."

Last week she appeared on the television show State Your Case, during which viewers decide which of three hard-luck stories should be rewarded with the prize of 100 pounds ($280).

The viewers looked at the mighty Phillips schnoz, heard her tell of yearning to have it bobbed, and voted her the winner in a poll held by mail.

Meanwhile, 8-year-old Shirley Phillips got into the act. She changed my mind for me," Mrs. Phillips told a reporter. She cried bitterly and said, "Mummy, don't have your nose cut off."

My husband agrees with her, so the money goes to four charitable organizations in my home town of Twyford."

Said husband Bill: "We're all pleased she changed her mind. We've got sort of used to her nose over the years."

Court Turns Down Leggett's Plea

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court today refused to grant a rehearing for Emmet Earl Leggett who is under death sentence for the strangulation slaying of 14-year-old Joe King.

Gov. Orval Faubus now must either set a date for Leggett's execution or commute the sentence. Leggett was convicted of strangling young King near Jacksonville on Dec. 23, 1955. Leggett admitted the crime after he was caught in the act of raping two teenaged girls near Jacksonville.

The Supreme Court seldom grants a petition for rehearing. The Supreme Court also denied a petition for rehearing B. N. (Bill) Smith who was convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment for the slaying of Buck Layne near Fordyce in October, 1955.

Bowman Withholds Rebuilding Decision

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—After gazing on the charred remains of the Bowman Manufacturers, Inc., boat plant, which was destroyed Saturday night in a spectacular fire, company officials yesterday held a meeting to decide whether to rebuild at Little Rock.

Henry A. McCune, president, said no decision was reached. McCune said the damage, estimated at $750,000, he made Saturday night might be a conservative one. He added that insurance partly covered the loss. The gigantic blaze may have started when an electric motor shorted out, the theorized. Bowman manufactured plastic boats priced at $1,245 each and about 500 vessels were in construction when the fire broke out. The only injury in the big blaze was a minor one. A fireman stepped on a nail while fighting the fire. Fire officials called the conflagration the greatest in Little Rock during recent years.

A check doesn't have to be dated to be legal. It can also be dated February 30 and still be good.

How Texas Eastern does a sweet job for Necco

Making hard candy is no soft job. It takes carefully controlled heat—from mixing kettle right through to cutting machine—to make it cut right, look right and taste good.

That's one reason why New England Confectionery Company, in its Cambridge, Mass., candy kitchens, uses natural gas—transported via Texas Eastern pipelines from the Southwest. Natural gas heat is easily controlled—and clean, uniform and immediate, too. Texas Eastern makes natural gas abundantly available to homes and industries in Midwestern, Appalachian and Eastern Seaboard areas.

Lesson in Enthusiasm

If you want a practical demonstration of enthusiasm, watch a group of children on their way to the circus to see the elephants the funny clowns, and the man on the flying trapeze. Already they can taste the popcorn and smell the sawdust. Their eyes sparkle; their voices are shrill; their bodies are tense with excitement. Children are the greatest of all enthusiasts and largely so because they are not ashamed to let others see their enthusiasm. When you want to act enthusiastically, just remember how you felt and acted when you were a child on the way to the circus.

Dickson Will Hurl as Long as He Can

By ED WILKS
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Murry Dickson crossed his legs, looked at his hands and said, "I want to pitch as long as I can. Just as long as I can."

He's been giving it a good try. This is his 21st season in baseball, his 16th in the majors.

The little righthander, at 41 the oldest player in the National League, was sitting in the St. Louis Cardinals' dugout when he was named pitcher for Monday's game against the Cincinnati Reds.

"I guess that knuckleball is my best pitch," he said. "I throw the same pitches I threw, say, 10 years ago. But I throw the knuckleball more often now."

It was suggested that a 41 pitcher might get a little weary on the mound, even a guy like little Murry who pitched more innings (219) and completed the most (12) of anyone on the Cardinals staff last season, when he won 13, lost 11.

"No," he answered. "I don't know as I feel tired out there. Weight never has bothered me. Maybe that explains it. But in the off season I hunt and fish and work as a carpenter with my brother back home in Leavenworth, Kan."

Going up and down ladders and swinging a hammer keeps you in shape.

"I'd rather be a starting pitcher or work every three or four days," said Murry. "But I don't know what plans they have for me."

Someone asked who was the toughest hitter for Dickson to handle.

Roy Campanella, he answered. "He really hits my knuckleball. I don't know how he does it."

Dickson smiled and added: "And I don't think he knows either."

Indians Turn Down $1 Million for Herb Score

By MILTON RICHMAN

SARASOTA, Fla. (UP)—General Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox confirmed today that he made a serious cash offer of $1,000,000 for Cleveland strikeout king Herb Score and bled at a suggestion that the fabulous offer was a publicity stunt.

I was and am definitely serious—certainly the offer was made in good faith," Cronin told skeptical reporters after General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Indians revealed he had rejected the deal. I offered him $1,000,000 for Score and told him to take the offer to the Indians' board of directors.

Greenberg said he'd give me a ring. Cronin went on. I didn't expect him to say anything about the offer. But, now that he has, it's true.

Greenberg's statement hit the major league training sites like a bomb-shell and produced reaction from stunning disbelief to statements like Bill Veck is running the show and Cronin and Greenberg just dreamed that up to produce a headline. Even Boston fans, polled by the United Press, conceded $1,500,000 seems awful hard to believe.

But in Tucson, Ariz., Manager Kirby Farrell of the Indians told the United Press. Mr. Greenberg did a very reasonable thing and I am glad he did. I would not trade Score for Mickey Mantle or Al Kaline.

Score, a 23-year old New York-born lefthander who got a $60,000 bonus to sign with Cleveland, set a record for a rookie by striking out 245 batters in 1955 and last season whiffed 263 while compiling a 20-9 record. His 1956 strikeout total was the highest in the majors since 1946 when Bob Fuller fanned 348 and Hal Newhouse whiffed 275 and his two-year record of 508 strikeouts in 476 innings in unprecedented.

Cronin himself figures in what he recognized as the largest cash deal ever made for a player when the Red Sox acquired him from the Washington Senators in 1935 for $250,000. In 1938, the Chicago Cubs gave the St. Louis Cardinals $185,000 in cash plus Pitcher's Court Davis and Clyde Shoun in exchange for Dizzy Dean.

THE AUNTIE HOUR—A private theater that always plays to "Standing Room Only" is the living room in the modest home of "Auntie Ann" in Giessendam, The Netherlands. Whenever there's a children's program on her TV set, Auntie Ann invites all the neighborhood kids. To make room for them—often there are 80 present—she has to move all the furniture out of the room. NIT Favorites Surprised By Unseeded Teams

NEW YORK (UP)—A couple of freddup unseeded teams, St. Bonaventure and Memphis State took the play away from Seattle University's highly touted Elgin (Rabbit) Baylor in the National Invitation basketball tourney last night.

Baylor was a disappointment in his first New York appearance as the Bonnies drubbed Seattle 85-68 after Memphis State had walloped Manhattan 85-73.

St. Bonaventure and Memphis State thus advanced to Thursday's semifinals. By the luck of the draw, they will oppose each other.

The round of four will be completed tonight when second-seeded Bradley meets Xavier of Ohio and Temple meets Dayton at Madison Square Garden.

The Bonnies overcame an early 10-4 Seattle lead and poured it on to shatter Seattle's 18-game winning streak. Memphis State did the same thing against Manhattan.

Baylor, a 686 high school star in Washington, D.C., before he entered Seattle, was downcast in the dressing room. He had fouled out after scoring 23 points but his floor work and passing were poor.

I was tired, he said. I couldn't seem to catch my breath. I don't know what was the matter.

Eddie Donovan, Bonnie coach, was overwhelmed with congratulations.

McCann was tremendous, he beamed, referring to 6-2 Brendan McCann. I had McCann play in front of Baylor and he did a tremendous job. The other boys were great too.

Thanks to five straight field goals by Angelo Lombardo, Manhattan broke a 10-10 tie to take a 22-14 lead early in the first game. But Memphis State went on a tear of its own to take a 22-27 on Win Wilfong's goal from under the net. The Tigars never yielded the lead after that.

Hoak Choice of Redlegs for 3rd Base

By JOHN CHANDLER
OF The Associated Press
Don Hoak, who played off and on at third base for two years with the Brooklyn Dodgers and for 121 games with the Chicago Cubs last year, seemed a good bet today to land the hot corner job this season with the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Manager Birdie Tebbets has been using Alex Grammas, who also performs at third, a shortstop lately, and this could be half the Cincinnati infield lineup on opening day.

Hoak, 29, batted in three runs yesterday as the Redlegs defeated the Boston Red Sox 7-6 in 10 innings at Sarasota, Fla. With the bases loaded in the eighth, Hoak singled to drive in two runs and tie the score at 5-5. Then in the 10th after Jerry Lynch's pinch hit triple and a walk to Johnny Temple, Hoak singled again. Another score came home as an infield out.

Sunday, Hoak got 3-for-3 against the New York Yankees.

Last fall Hoak, pinch runner Warren Hacker and outfielder Pete Whisenant were swapped by Chicago to Cincinnati for third baseman Ray Jablonski and pitcher Elmer Singleton.

Giving Up Hollywood Life Pays Off

By THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ever feel like chucking the whole works and going to live in a Mexican village. Ellen Bassing and her husband Bob did. They left behind Hollywood careers to lead the simple life below the border. And the investment paid off. Out of it came her novel, "Home Before Dark," which they are now adapting for Warner Brothers. The studio paid $100,000 for it.

It's quite a switch for the Basings, who at times were virtually penniless in Mexico.

Ellen is an attractive Bostonian who doesn't look old enough to have sons of 18 and 21. She is a veteran of the studios, having worked as story analyst, technical advisor, etc. Bob Bassing was assistant story editor at Columbia Pictures.

We both wanted to write," she remarked, but we realized it was impossible to do so at home. We decided the only thing to do was to get away, and we thought we could live most cheaply in Mexico.

So we sold all our belongings and left. All our friends said we were crazy, and maybe we were. But we had to try it.

They settled in the village of Ajijic, an idyllic community that had previously attracted writers D. H. Lawrence, John Dos Passos and Tennessee Williams. After a year, the Basings found themselves broke.

But they weren't ready to admit defeat. They sent for their books and opened a lending library for the American and English residents and tourists.

Meanwhile, the Basings wrote. He found success in short stories and she worked on a novel about a young woman's return to normal life after a mental breakdown.

After three years in Mexico, the Basings had to return.

It was my health," she said. We boiled our water and raising our own vegetables, but still I always got the illnesses that most tourists get. They nearly lost me a couple of times. Finally the doctor told me bluntly and with no bedside manner that I would have to leave or I would die.

They returned here and Bob clicked at once with a TV script. On the day she was about to take

Playhouse 90 Highlight of Winter TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The presentation of "The Last Tycoon" by Playhouse 90 (CBS-TV) was a highlight of the winter TV dramatic season. It reinforced opinions one forms after watching that 90-minute Thursday evening program over a long period of time.

When scripts of high dramatic value are chosen, 90 minutes are preferable to 60 minutes in TV drama. The films made by an outside packaging producer which Playhouse 90 shows once a month are so vastly inferior to its usual live productions that, using only that comparative basis, one would say live drama is indeed preferable to filmed.

Finally, the Hollywood produced program believes the contention of many New York producers that the West Coast cannot turn out live TV drama of distinction.

Jack Palance, playing the head of a motion picture studio, gave a superb interpretation of a complex man confronting complex problems in "The Last Tycoon." Viveca Lindfors, Keenan Wynn and Lee Remick also were excellent. John Frankheimer's direction cannot be raised too highly.

To Don M. Mankiewicz goes credit for writing an exceptional script. It cannot be called an adaptation since F. Scott Fitzgerald was far short of completing the novel when he died, though the dimensions of what he wanted to say were implicit in the pages completed. It is not merely a story about Hollywood; it is a study of man facing death, an artist under the pressure of a commercialism, a lonely man in a crowd.

As far as can be recalled here, it is the only excellent interpretation of Fitzgerald's work yet performed on television.
